Shortly before 10 o'clock Mr. Logan arose and said among other things: Our Puritan and our cavalier merit well the culoglums that are passed upon them every Fourth of July and ond of December, and I am proud to have in my singled blood of both. But the Spanish cavaller ad the Jesuit priest, who were so prominent among to es in the southern part of our continent the Spaniard, placing his career on this continen nai in their treatment of the red man was the a some way the character of the civilization and the kinity which the Spaniard imparted to the Indian Brion than he had ever known before.

But they saved and thresheated the previous inhabitants of the country and built their civilization upon them; while blood and shughter marked out pathway, and we founded our civilization upon their graves. After reviewing at considerable length the history of the United States and that of Mexico, Mr. Logan

North American nations he will accredit to our Nation many points of difference a vast superiority over all ers; but if the respective merits of the two countries ison of our declaration of 1776 with Mexico's of and our Constitution of 1789 with hers of 1857, our would certainly have to take the second place. Mexico waited thirty-seven years longer than we did to declare her, independence, but I am inclined to think that her repudiation of slavery in that declaration was well worth the thirty-seven years of waiting. Mexico adopted her liberal constitution, the basis of her present govern-ment, sixty-eight years after we had adopted ours, but I am not sure that this second article which I have quoted not worth all the delay

Romero, on rising to respond, was enthusias tically cheered. He spoke to "The Future of Mexico Relations with the United States." He said

I hope I shall be allowed, in a Mexican feast, to say a few words concerning the future of my country in conne rith the United States. You all know, gentlemen, that the wealth of Mexico is really astonishing. She ha all the climates of the earth, from the frozen regions of th poles, in her snow-clad mountains, to the equatorial heat of her tierras callentes, and can produce, therefore, all the fruits which grow out of the earth, and she alone can supply self the coffee, sugar, vanilla, india rubber, and other tropical products needed to provide the large market of the United States. Her mineral wealth is equally unthe whole eftver which forms the stock of the white meta in the world, and her mines are, so far, merely scratched. Her mountains contain not only silver, but gold, iron, espper, lead, tin, cinnabar, and every other kind of metal. We have also large veins of coal, which are now being dis-tovered, and only one has commenced to be developed. The configuration of the country, traversed by rugged and steep sterns, which come almost to the sea, while it preve from having large navigable streams of any length, fur ands of torrents, which in their precipitous cours the mountains to the sea offered the largest amoun waterpower I can conceive of, and will Mexico, in the course of time, one leading manufacturing countries of the world. are beautifully blessed by Providence, so far as natural wealth is concerned, and we have all the elements to make us a soif-supporting nation. All we need is peace and a just and and patriotic Government, willing to facilitate the development of the country; and I think we have established the former permanently, and enjoy the latter countries in contiguity one to the other for a distance of hearly 2,000 miles. Our roads intermingle and make of both practically a single country for travelling and com-mercial purposes. We have no natural barriers to trade, all those existing being entirely artificial. Although the possibilities of Mexico are immense, we are not yet a manufacturing country, in the whole extent of this word, because our resources pre still undeveloped.

When the settlement of the last Territory of the United ales shall make it difficult to find a new field for profitable ee, and before long it will be as difficult to find it as it is now in Europe, the capital which this country so rapidly accumulating and its enterprising activity all have to look for new ventures. It will be an act of bresight to enter at once into the large and rich field offered terely hope that you will avail yourselves of this bountiful apportunity, and that the result of our common efforts will be equally advantageous to both countries, as no one-sided bargain ever can be, in my opinion, satisfactory or lasting, and that the ultimate result of our combined efforts will be to create promised. create new bonds of cordulity, good will and mutual bront between the citizens of these two great republics, making them lasting and true friends, and strengthening their respective positions among the family of nationeach preserving, of course, its own nationality. The height of my ambition would be satisfied if I can be allowed to see

A PHILHARMONIC CONCERT AT KINGSTON. Kingston, N. Y., Dec. 16 (Special).-The first conurth season of the Kingston Philharmonic society took place at the Academy of Music here to-night. It was a distinct and pleasing success, socially and musically. The audience was large and enthusiastic. Miss Mary Howe, the soprano, was received with a cordiality seldom shown to any one in this conservative town. Miss Olive Mende, the young Easton violinist, did excellent work in selections from Hauser, Saint Saens and Wieniawski. E. J. Bushnell sang two or three baritone songs. William R. Chap-man was the conductor, and the singing of his choir was heartly applanded.

CYRUS W. FIELD'S CONDITION.

HE IS GROWING WEAKER EVERY DAY AND MAY

Cyrus W. Field continues to grow weaker and his death is looked for at any moment. Dr. Faller said last evening that the condition of his patient was most cretical and that he was afraid he would not live

Soon after Edward Field's arrest the old gentleman was told of the last misfortune that had overtaken his son. The information of Edward Field's arrest was a severe blow to him and since that time he has been gradually sinking. Those who were in the room at the time say that he cried out is agony and re fused to be quietes. An attempt was made to keep the news of the arrest from him, but as he has insisted on seeing all the newspapers since the firm become bankrupt, his family and physician knew there was no use in trying to keep anything from him and he was told of it in as quiet a manuer as possible.

The insolvent broker in Ludlow Street Jail went to bed early Tuesday evening, after having some ten and toast. He tossed about the bed unensily. Keepers Casey and Powers watched him throughout the night. At 7:15 o'clock yesterday morning the warden awake Field, who arose and stared vacantly about the room. He looked as though he was in deep thought. "I am worrying," he said to the warden, "about my wife. I hope that I will hear some news of her. It will relieve my mind. A Mr. Ferris who called upon me last night promised to return and let me know about my wife's condition, but he has falled to keep his word." Mr. Field then drank a cup of tea and firmly refused to eat anything. "My appetite is all gone," he said. He then sent out for the morning papers and went into the sitting room and looked over them. The keepers say that he is exceedingly polite, that his talk is rational and that he acts like a man whose spirit is all broken up. Dr. Field was his only visitor yesterday.

" ALABAMA" AND THE SOUTHERN SOCIETY. A strange story was started yesterday to the effect the gry with A. M. Palmer on account of certain actions of angry with A. M. Palmer on account of certain actions of his in regard to "Alabama," which is having a long and prosperous run at Palmer's Theatre. It was said that he had made some changes in the text of the play that were too Northern in their sentiment, and that he had used the American flag freely on his advertisements. It has hitherfo-been understood that the play was a great favorite in the South, and with Southern people in the North. When it was acted in the South the newspapers were levish and clowing it their regions of it and declared that it would lowing in their praises of it, nad declared that it would prove a bond of increasing friend hip between the sections of the country. In the discussions of the subject that were heard last night the universal sentiment seemed to be that here was nothing in the play that was not friendly and nore than friendly to the South, and that the supposition that there was any objection on the part of Southerners to the use of the dag of the United States in the advertise.

ENTERTAINMENT AT A WOMAN'S CLEB

A delightful entertainment was given at the Berkeley Lauies, Athletic Club at their pretty clubhouse in Forty fourth-st. Yesterlay afternoon. The features of the enter-tainment were some curious illustrations of "sympathetic vibrations" and "actual pitch," by John S. White, president of the Berkeley Athletic Association. Mr. White's lecture was novel and scientific, and he was closely followed by his fair listeners. In the course of the lecture Miss Adeline Hibbard, while blindfolded, named all the notes in any chorl struck at random upon the piano by several members of the audience. Miss Hibbard's feat was clever, and she did even her famous colored predecessor. The entertainmen was followed by an informal ten in the rooms of the Ludies The entertainment was the first of a series of five to be given by the members of the club. ## OBITUARY.

GIDEON S. PALMER.

The announcement of the death of sideon Palmer, commission merchant, was received yesterday with surprise and regret by wholesale dealers in fruit and produce. A week ago Mr. Palmer was taken with an attack of pleuro-pieumonia, from the effects of which ke died about 8 o'clock on Tuesday night. He was born in Ulster County, N. Y., in 1848, his parents being members of the Society of Friends, and brought up in that faith. In 1867 he came to this city and went into the wholesale commission trade establishing an extensive busines at No. 166 Reade-st. EX-GOVERNOR A. P. K. SAFFORD. Jacksonville, Fla., Dec. 16 .- A Tarpon Springs dispatch to "The Times-Union" says: "Ex-Governor A. P. K. Safford died at his home here yesterday, after an llness of over a year. Governor Safford was born in Vermont in Vehruary, 1830, emigrated with his parents to Illinois when only eight years old, and in 1850 moved on to California. He was a member of the California Legislature for two sessions, 1866 and 1868. Later he went to Nevada, where he held the office of Surveyor General for two years, and was appointed Territorial Governor of Arizona in 1869. He served as Gov ernor eight years. During his term of office his main efforts were directed to establishing the public-school system of the Territory. He was one of Hamilton Disston's associates in the purchase of 4,000,000 acres of land from the State of Florida, and he had since spent most of his time in this State. He started eight years ago, and through his own efforts chiefly huilt up the town of Tarpon Springs, where he made his home."

she was a native of Vermont. With the generous cooperation of her brother, she opened a free school in Cairo, and taught till the outbreak of the war. a personal friend of President Lincoln and of General Grant, it was easy for her to secure permission to carry succor to the wounded, and it is said that she was the first woman in the United States to administer relief on the field of battle. Before the war was over the terrible mental and physicial strain proved too much for her, and, almost a wreck, she went abroad to try once more for life and vigor. On her return from Europe Miss Safford spent three years in New York studying medicine, and after her graduation she applied to the medical faculty of the University of Vienna for permission to study

It was readily granted, and she at once returned to Europe and for nearly three years she studied in Vienna and other places, having exceptional opportunities, though in every place where he was received she was the first woman to study these branches. As a physician, Dr. Safford practised in Chicago and Boston. In the latter city she also taught for years in the medical department of the romen in Boston to be elected to serve on the public school committee, and here, as everywhere, sh faithful in the highest degree. She was warmly interested in all causes of reform and in efforts to better the condition of working girls. No human being could come to her for sympathy or help without meeting quick response. She was compelled by poor health to go to Florida a few years ago, and there she died.

CAPTAIN ALLAN MCLANE.

Washington, Dec. 16.-Captain Allan McLane died this city, at the age of sixty-nine years. He was the son of Louis McLane, Secretary of the Trasury during Jackson's Administration, and a brother of Robert M. Minister to France. Captain McLane served for some time in the Navy. When the Pacific Mail Steamship company was organized he was assigned to the command of the steamer Fremont, it being the custom of the Government at that time to appoint naval officers to the command of the company's vessels, inasmuch were at the disposal of the Government in the event of war. He afterward resigned from the Navy and became president of the steamship company, which place he held for a number of years. He left the company's service about 1870 and retired at the same time from active business. Afterward he resided after-nately in Ealtimore and New-York until 1880, when he

ANDREW HUTTON

Andrew Hutton, who died on Tuesday, in his eighty second year, was a native of St. Andrews, scotland He came to this country when a young man and es over sixty years ago. He became a partner of Robert Henry, and the firm built many of the large stores and residences of this city during their continuance in business. Mr. Hutton retired over thirty years ago. He was for many years chairman of the Pension Com mittee of the General Society of Mechanics and Tradesmen, and many of the widows and orphans of that institution will regret the loss of one who distributed in a quiet way more money than there was assigned to them on the society's list, where the case appealed to his humanity. His private charities were numerous and he distributed his means in the practical way that so distinguished his life. None knew of his bounty save those it cheered and comforted. He was scrupulously correct in his business habits, of strong constitution and endowed with robust health. He married in early years a Miss Tooker, who lived with him many years and died in August, 1890. By this marriage he had two children, Lewis T. and Margaret H., wife of ev-Judge Frederick G. Gedney. The funeral will be at his home, No. 349 West Twenty second-st., and the burial will be at Greenwood.

A LETTER FOUND IN WHICH THE FORMER EX PLAINS HIS ACTION. San Francisco, Dec. 16 (Special),-Miss A. A.

Chevallier, of Boston, who spent several months at Thomas Lake Harris's "Brotherhood of the New Life" community at Fountain Grove, Sonoma County, Call fornia, has since then gathered there and among exmembers a large amount of material which sub-stantiates her charge that Harris is conducting the brotherhood on as immoral principles as were those of the Oneida Community. She found in Harris's house the library, pictures and small belongings of Laurence Oliphant and his wife, which they abandoned when they suddenly left the community. She also holds letters written by Laurence Oliphant from Haifa, Syria, which explains the cause of his rupture with Harris, a cause which was not explained by Mrs. Margaret Oliphant in her memoirs. Miss Chevallier de-clares that these letters show plainly that when Harris approached the "celestial amours of the counterparts. a doctrine worse than Mormon polygamy, Oliphant's eyes were opened. In a letter which Oliphant wrote from Haifa, in May, 1885, he says of Harris:

"My earnest prayer is that Harris's eyes may be opened; that he may once more be restored to that moral sanity which might make him a useful man. Unfortunately, his main peculiarity is reckless disrethis mroning from the grip at the family residence in gard for the truth. I severed all connection the service of humanity, thus converting him from a religious reformer into a religious impostor. When I became convinced that such was the case, I seceded at a sacrifice of several thousand pounds, and abandoned a large portion of my library, clothing and other property, of which he had taken possession. Since Miss Chevallier left the Harris community she has obtained many affidavits from ex-members, detailing practices of the grossest setsuality which they witnessed. As Harris has lately begun a new propaganda in England, she wants to check his influence for evil, and she proposes soon to lay her proofs before President Harrison.

A FREE EXHIBIT OF INTEREST.

Few people have ever seen an original stone in the bladder. In the window of Dirman's drug store, under the Astor House, such a stone is on exhibition, but the most wonderful thing is that it was removed after being completely districted and reduced to a putty-like mass by drinking Buffalo Littia Water. Go and see it; you may never have the chance again; it is a curiosity.
